Daniel C. Jackling, general manager of the Utah Copper company and the properties of the Ray Consolidated and of the Utah Copper company and the properties of the Ray Consolidated and Gila companies near Kelvin. Artz., and the Chino property in New Mexico, returned to Salt Lake Sunday night after a two weeks' visit of inspection of his southern interests. Mr. Jackling has in reality, however, been out of the city for about one month, having been in attendance at the proceedings in the Wall injunction case against the Utah Copper company in Newark, N. J., last month, following which the merger of the Utah Copper and Boston Consolidated companies was accomplished at a meeting held in Trenton. On his way west from these sessions, Mr. Jackling stopped off for a few hours in Salt Lake, and then continued in his private car to the northwest coast on personal affairs. His journey to the mines in the south, which has just been completed, followed the northwest trip.

In a general way, Mr. Jackling states, the results of the late developments at the Arizona and New Mexico properties, recently visited, are very encour-

As to matters locally, Mr. Jackling had little new information to announce, he having been more or less out of touch with the situation since his so-journ in the southern "wilds." For the next two or three weeks, however, he will devote his energies to rounding out the details of proposed changes and improvements. Among these improve-ments is the contemplated increase in the capacities of the Boston Consolints talente congest roles he has strongest roles has strong

The Basque grand opera quartette is the headliner at the Orpheum this week. At their first appearance Sunday afternoon at the matinee and at the Sunday evening performance, they captured the big audience, who encored them again and again. This quartette presents a repertoire of songs from the popular operas in French, Italian and English. The number that elicited the heartiest applause Sunday evening was "The Glow Worm," which was sung in a most charming manner, while the other numbers met with a warm reception, and the ers met with a warm reception, and the singers were recalled In the Four Readings, three men and act, which merited the encore given them. "Dobbs' Dilemma" has been presented here before by Mr. Underwood and Miss Francis Slosson, but it is a comedy that one does not tire of seeing, and these favorite players with Orpheum audiences are just as clever as ever and the people laugh at the act, which is a laugh-producer. You enjoyed it the first time you saw the play, you will do likewise when you see it again.

Miss Julia Frary, who was late prima donna with the Frank Danlels company, presents a number of song hits of the day. Her rendition of "Keep Your Foot on the Soft, Soft Pedal" was sung in a clever manner, as were the other numbers, and she received merited applause.

Bell Davis and her pickaninnies, in their singing and comedy dancing diversement, are as clever as ever and their stunt was well received. They are all corking good dancers.

The overture, "Triumphant America," as given by the orchestra, under the direction of Prof. Willard Welbe, was delightful, as was the selection from "The Chocolate Soldier." Both were heartly encored. This, with the kinodrome, concludes the bill, which will run the week, with matinees daily.

Bungalow opened the initial performance of a week's run last night to a capacity house. Mr. Mack, being more than familiar with the character of the very-much-loved husband, handles the portrayal with all the ease and grace of his old-time self, despite his recent indisposition. Mande Leone appears in the role of the fealous wife, and when Mande Leone is said to appear in any role, it goes without saying that she plays the part for all there is in it. "Because She Loved Him So" is one long, hearty laugh. The trials and victositudes of the husband and wife are worked up in a most amusing manner. Elmer Booth, James Rennie, Frederick Moore, Reed Clarke, Joseph Kennedy, Irene Outtrim, Grace Hamilton and Fearl Ether are all allotted saitable parts, in which each makes the misst of the portrayal. In a curtain speech, Mr. Mack stated that the production of "Because She Loved Him so" would continue through the week and after that he does not know for certain just what he will do. Whether he remains in Salt Lake or not, Maude Leone will continue with the present company. mains in Salt Lake or not, Maude Leone will continue with the present company. The play continues the week, with usual matiness.

natinees The crowded houses which greeted Theodore Lorch and his most capable company at the matinee and evening performances at the Grand Sunday were indicative of the high esteem in which Mr. Lorch is held by Salt Lakers and augurs well for the future success of his engagement here. His reappearance in this city after an absence of nearly two years seemed to arouse new enthusiasm among the patrons of the Grand and at the evening performance several nundred people were turned away, being unable to secure seats. The popularity of Mr. Lorch and the members of his company was shown on every hand by hearty appliause upon the first appearance of the favorites during the progress of the first act. He could not have chosen a better play than "The Lieutenant and the Cowboy" for the opening of his second engagement here.

Something new in the musical comedy line that will prove an innovation to local amusement seekers, "The Alaskan" is promised as that and even more. A new and novel "Snow-balling" number, in which the entire audience is allowed to pelt the Esquimo girls with fluffy missiles, which are exact replicas of snow-balls, is very exciting. "The Alaskan" comes to the Salt Lake theater tonight for four nights and one matinee.

Popular Robert Edeson, who has not appeared in this city since his triumphant transcontinental tour in "Strongheart" three seasons ago, is announced as one of the important attractions in the near future at the Sait Lake theater Thursday week Mr. Edeson is appearing this season in a new play of the present time called "A Man's a Man," by Anna Steese Richardson and Henry Leslie Fridenberg, the central character in which (that of a young New York attorney) is said to afford this talented actor one of the strongest roles he has yet portrayed.

The character of Hiram Perkins, which Max Figman plays in his new big comedy drama production, "Mary Jane's Pa," is one of the most lovable on the stage. He starts off badly, becauce it develops that he has deserted his wife and children for cleven years, but when he returns and reveals the hold the wanderlust has had upon him and how it has broadened his nature and filled him with philosophy and a wish for better things, you begin to like him better and by the time he helps his wife get out the politiyou begin to like him better and by the time he helps his wife get out the political edition of her paper, even when he knows by so doing it may mean the success of his rival and the eternal separation of himself and wife, he has a firm hold on the sympathies. And when in the last act, he prepares to leave home and the children he loves, but who do not know him, there is many a sympathetic tear shed for him. Mr. Figman's engagement will be for one week at the Colonial, starting next Sunday.

The Dramatic association of All Hallows college will present on Monday evening a three-act drama entitled "Athe Sign of the Rose." This is a Colonial play, having to do with the stirring events immediately following the rebellion against England, and is eminently suited for the occasion, Washington's birthday. The Dramatic association will be assisted by the All Hallows' orchestra, which will render several selections under the lendership of Professor Anton Pederson, who has charge of all the musical organizations at the college. In addition to these numbers there will be recitations and solos by the junior choir. All the students connected with the show have been working hard for the past three weeks and the production will no doubt bear the finished air that has always characterized such attempts at A Hallows. On Sunday afternoon a special matinee was given for St. Mary's academy and St. Am's orphanage. The performance this evening will start at 8 and all friends and patrons of the college are invited to attend.

Strange as it may seem to those who have survived the snows and wind of the past three months, this hasn't been an exceptionally heavy winter. The arrest of Bear and young Maw was brought about through information furnished by Mrs. Maw, mother of the boy. Mrs. Maw said her boy told her he was forced into the crime after he had been plied with whiskey by the older men.

An interesting case was that of Mr. H. L. McDuffle a member of the firm of H. C. De Wolfe & Co., of the Crocker building. San Francisco.

The case was puzzling. There was pain in the kidney with a showing of blood Examination by seven physicians proved that the blood was from the kidneys, and it was the opinion of all that there was a stone cutting the kidneys, as the least exercise caused a showing of blood.

Four X-ray pictures were taken, three of them showing a stone half an inch in diameter. To be certain that it was a stone that cast the shadow, a similar stone about the same size taken from a natient was put under him for comparison—both stones showing on the plate.

An operation was about decided upon when Fulton Renal Compound was recommended to Mr. McDuffle. He feared the knife, and gave it a trial.

Within ten weeks the blood and pain had ceased and in six months he considered himself well.

We also have a three-page letter from an oid-school physician, a lecturer in one of the San Francisco medical colleges, covering a similar case of stone in the kidney. An operation seemed interitable.

He prescribed Fulton's Renal Compound upon the theory that as it was getting results in Nephritis it ought to have some effect to reduce the inflammation and excessive uric acid that attends Calculus. He was so surprised to get a complete recovery that he thought a record ought to be made of it and gave us the letter above referred to.

Fulton's Renal Compound seems to have about the same percentage of efficiency in stone in the kidney that it has shown in Bright's Disease.
